CORNER IN OLD HAWAIIAN STAMPS

Speculator Has 20,000 of an Issue of 1871 Which He Wants to Sell.

A local speculator has in his possession nearly 20,000 Hawaiian postage stamps of the 18-cent variety of the issue of 1871, and after holding them for many years he is now anxious to dispose of them to the government for their face value.

Shortly after these stamps were put on the market under the days of the monarchy this gentleman cornered nearly the whole issue, investing nearly $4,000 in them. Since then he has been holding onto them intending to dispose of them to dealers and collectors at a premium. The stamps are now quoted by American dealers at a premium of about fifty cents at retail, but the man who has such a corner on the stamps, weary of dickering with dealers, who on learning of the large number he had on hand rather fought shy of purchasing, has addressed Postmaster Oat asking if the United States Government would redeem these stamps as it has done those of the Republic that have been current during the last few years. He was advised that the government would redeem only stamps of the Republic, so he has his elephant still on his hands.

It is likely that the owner of the stamps would be able to dispose of a good portion of his stock at auction here in Honolulu or anywhere in the States, for they are among the rarest of Hawaiian stamps and are much desired by collectors.

NEW LODGE MEETS.

Coming Men of America Initiate Several Members Last Night.

There was a meeting last evening at 7:30 o'clock of the Honolulu Lodge of the Coming Men of America. This organization, which is exclusively for young men and boys is a new one, but has gained largely in membership in the last few years and has now over 15,000 names upon its rolls. It is a purely fraternal and social organization and has no political or religious affiliations.

The Honolulu lodge was organized recently with six members. They are O. G. Beardsley, Walter Carroll, Robert D. King, J. B. Dias, A. Dollinger and Otto Burmester. Several new members were initiated last evening and the order bids fair to acquire some strength.
